6. RISK FACTORS

The investment made in securities are subject to market risks and there is no assurance or guarantee that the value of or return on the investments made will always appreciate, it could depreciate to an unpredictable extent and largely dependent on capital market conditions. Following are the risk factors as perceived by the Portfolio Manager.

- Investment in equities, derivatives and mutual funds etc. are subject to market risks and there is no assurance or guarantee that the objective of investments will be achieved.

- As with any investment in securities, the value of the portfolio can go up or down depending upon the factors and forces affecting the capital markets. Accordingly, the investment decisions made by the Portfolio Manager may not always be profitable.

- The performance of the portfolio may be affected by changes in Government policies, general levels of interest rates, currency rates, taxation laws and risks associated with trading volumes, liquidity and settlement systems in equity and debt markets.

- The Portfolio Management Service is subject to risk arising from the investment objective, investment strategy and asset allocation.

- The Portfolio Management activities have been launched by the company from April' 2011only, and prior to that the Portfolio Manager has no experience related to portfolio management. However, the Principal Officer so designated by the Portfolio Manager has the relevant experience to manage the Portfolio Management Services.

- The past performance of the Portfolio Manager does not indicate its future performance of the same product or any other present or future product/s of the Portfolio Manager.

- The performance of the Asset of the Client may be adversely affect by the performance of the individual securities, changes in the market place and industry specific and macroeconomic factors.

- Investment in debt instruments and other fixed income securities are subject to default risk, liquidity risk and interest rate risk. Interest rate risk results from changes in demand and supply for money and other macroeconomic factors and creates price changes in the value of the debt instruments. Consequently, the value of the portfolio may be subject to fluctuation.

- Investments in debt instruments are subject to reinvestment risks as interest rates prevailing on interest amount or maturity due dates may differ from the original coupon of the bond, which might result in the proceeds being invested at the lower rate.

- The Portfolio Manager may invest in non-publicly offered debt securities and unlisted equities. This may expose the client's portfolio to liquidity risks.

- Engaging in securities lending is subject to risk related to fluctuations in collateral value/settlement/liquidity/counter party.

- The Portfolio Manager may use derivatives instruments like index futures, stock futures and options contracts, warrants, convertible securities, swap agreements or any other derivative instruments for the purpose of hedging and portfolio balancing, as permitted under the Regulations and guidelines. Usage of derivatives will expose the Portfolio to certain risks inherent to such derivatives. As and when the Portfolio Manager deals in the derivatives market on behalf of the client, there are risk factors and issues concerning the use of derivatives that investors should understand.

- Derivative products are specialized instruments that require investment techniques and risk analyses different from those associated with stocks and bonds. The use of a derivative requires an understanding not only of the underlying instrument but of the derivative itself. Derivatives require the maintenance of adequate controls to monitor the transactions entered into, the ability to assess the risk that a derivative adds to the portfolio and the ability to forecast price or interest rate movements correctly. There is the possibility that a loss may be sustained by the portfolio as a result of the failure of another party (usually referred to as the "counter party") to comply with the terms of the derivatives contract. Other risk in using derivatives include the risk of mispricing or improper valuation of derivatives and the inability of derivatives to correlate perfectly with underlying assets, rates and indices. Thus, derivatives are highly leveraged instruments. Even a small price movement in the underlying security could have a large impact on their value.

- The value of the securities may be affected by changes in settlement periods and transfer procedures. The liquidity of the investments made by the Portfolio may be restricted by the trading volumes, settlement periods and transfer procedures. Different segments of the Indian financial markets have different settlement periods and such periods may be extended significantly by unforeseen circumstances leading to delays in receipt of proceeds from sale of securities.

- Investors are not being offered any guaranteed or indicative returns through any of the Product / Options. The investments may not be suited to all categories of investors.

- The names of the Product do not in any manner indicate their prospects or returns.

- The investments made are subject to external risks such as war, natural calamities, and policy changes of Local/International markets which affect stock/capital markets.

- Risk arising out of non-diversification: The investment objectives of one or more of the portfolio management Product / Options could result into concentration on a specific asset/ asset class/sector/ issuer etc., which could lead to non-diversified portfolio which tends to be more volatile than diversified portfolio.

- In the interest of investors, the Portfolio Manager may, at its sole discretion, invest/advise to invest up to 100% of the portfolio in liquid and / or debt mutual fund schemes. Moreover, the Portfolio Manager may at its sole discretion decide not to apply to the securities and return the funds to investors, in case there is any change in the risk/return profile of the portfolio in the backdrop of changed market conditions or for any other reason that the Portfolio Manager may deem appropriate.

- The Portfolio Manager is neither responsible nor liable for any losses resulting from the operations of the portfolio management services.

- Performance of the portfolio/s may be impacted as a result of specific investment restrictions, if any provided by the client.

- The tax implications provided in this document is for general purposes only and is based on advice that the Portfolio Manager has received regarding the law and the practice that is currently in force in India and the client should be aware that the relevant fiscal rules and their interpretation may change. As is the case with any investment, there can be no guarantee that the tax position or the proposed tax position prevailing at the time of investment in the Portfolio will endure indefinitely. In view of the individual nature of tax consequences, each client is advised to consult his/her own professional tax advisor.

- To implement a decision of the client regarding investments, the Portfolio Manager would have to take the services of persons and bodies that are not the Portfolio Manager's employees and rely on them. While the Portfolio Manager, would exercise all care and take all precautions while employing such persons, it should be understood that the Portfolio Manager would not be liable for any act or omission on the part of such persons engaged by the Portfolio Manager for the purpose of making an investment or disposing off an investment and that the Portfolio Manager would not be liable for any loss caused by any act or omission on the part of such person.

- The Portfolio Manager will also not be liable for any bona fide act of omission or commission or delay in carrying out the instructions of the client.

- Clients are advice to review/study this disclosure document carefully and consult their own professional advisors on legal, taxation, financial matters before investing.

F. Tax Implications to Different Categories of Investors

Income arising from purchase and sale of securities can give rise to business income or capital gains in the hands of the Client. The issue of income characterization as above is essentially a question of fact and dependent on whether the shares are held as Business / Trading assets or on Capital Account.

Hence , the profits or gains arising from transaction in securities could be taxed either as "Profits or Gains of Business or Profession" under section 28 of the Act or as "Capital Gains" under section 45 of the Act.

Tax Implications where Transaction in Securities are in the nature of Investments

Where investment under the Portfolio Management Services is treated as investment, then the profit or loss from transfer of securities shall be taxed as Capital Gains under section 45 of the Act.

All dividend received on or after 1 April 2020 is taxable in the hands of the investor/shareholder. if shares are held for trading purposes, then the dividend income shall be taxable under the head business or profession. Whereas, if shares are held as an investment, then income arising in nature of dividend shall be taxable under the head other sources

The Finance Act, 2020 imposed a TDS on dividend distribution by companies and mutual funds on or after 1 April 2020. The normal rate of TDS is 10% on dividend income paid in excess of Rs 5,000 from a company or mutual fund.

As per The Finance Act,2023, capital gains made on debt mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (ETFs), international funds, gold funds, and certain categories of hybrid funds — schemes that invest less than 35 per cent in Indian equities will get clubbed with total income and will get taxed at applicable slab rate.

Long Term Capital Gains

Section 112, Long term Capital Gains is taxable at the rate of 12.5% except assets covered under Section 112A i.e. listed equity shares/ units of equity shares/ units of business trust on which STT is paid. Under 112A, Long Term Capital Gains on sale of Equity Shares in a company or units of Equity Oriented Fund are taxable at the rate of 12.5% over and above Rs. 1.25 lakh in a financial year (Subject to grandfathering of the highest prices as on 31.01.18) for all categories of investors provided such transactions are entered into a recognized stock exchange or such units are sold to the Mutual Fund and such transactions are chargeable to STT.

Section 112 applies to all types of taxpayers, such as individuals, HUF, company, firm, resident.

SHORT-TERM CAPITAL GAINS

Under section 111A of the Act, income from Short-term Capital Gains arising from transfer of equity shares in a company on recognized stock exchange or a unit of equity oriented fund, on which STT is paid, are taxable @ 20% (plus applicable surcharge and cess).

In case of resident individuals and HUFs, where the total income as reduced by short-term capital gains u/s 111A, is below the basic exemption limit, the short-term capital gains will be reduced to the extent of the shortfall and only the balance Short-term capital gains will be subjected to the 20% tax. The said tax rate would be increased by an applicable Surcharge, Education Cess and Secondary & Higher Education Cess.

The tax rates applicable to different categories of assesses on Short-term Capital Gains (other than on securities referred above) would be the normal applicable rates.

Tax implications for Non-resident Indians

Under section 111A of the Act, income from Short-term Capital Gains arising from transfer of equity shares in a company on recognized stock exchange or a unit of equity oriented fund, on which STT is paid, are taxable @ 20% (plus applicable cess).

Under Section 112, Long term Capital Gains is taxable at the rate of 12.5% except assets covered under Section 112A i.e. listed equity shares/ units of equity shares/ units of business trust on which STT is paid. Under 112A, Long Term Capital Gains on sale of Equity Shares in a company or units of Equity Oriented Fund are taxable at the rate of 12.5% (plus applicable cess)over and above Rs. 1.25 lakh in a financial year (Subject to grandfathering of the highest prices as on 31.01.18) provided such transactions are entered into a recognized stock exchange or such units are sold to the Mutual Fund and such transactions are chargeable to STT) or as per the special provisions contained in section 115E of the Act. Under section 115E of the Act for non-resident Indians, income by way of long-term capital gains in respect of specified assets purchased in foreign currency as defined under section 115C (which includes shares, debentures, deposits in an Indian Company and security issued by central govt.) is chargeable at the rate of 12.5% (plus applicable surcharge and cess).

In the case of an assessee of a country with which a DTAA is in force, the tax should be withheld as per provisions in the Act or as per the provisions in the DTAA whichever is more beneficial to the non-resident investor. Provided the investor submits Tax Residency Certificate (TRC) and Form 10F along with fulfilling other conditions related to availing the benefits of DTAA.

CAPITAL LOSS

Losses under the head 'Capital Gains' cannot be set-off against income under any other head. Further, within the head 'Capital Gains', long-term capital losses cannot be adjusted against short-term capital gains. However, short-term capital losses can be adjusted against both short-term and long-term capital gains. Unabsorbed long-term capital loss can be carried forward and set off against the long-term capital gains arising in subsequent eight assessment years. Unabsorbed short-term capital loss can be carried forward and set off against the income under the head Capital Gains in subsequent eight assessment years subject to the relevant provisions of Income Tax Act 1961.

Tax Implications where securities are treated as Business Assets

Profits and Gains of Business or Profession

The following are the various income streams that can arise from securities held under the PMS:

1. Gains on sale of securities;
2. Dividend income on shares / Income-distributed on units; and
3. Interest income on debt securities.

If the securities under the PMS is regarded as a business/ trading asset, then any gain/ loss arising from sale of such securities would be taxed under the head "Profits and Gains of Business or Profession" under section 28 of the Act. The gain/ loss is to be computed under the head "Profits and Gains of Business or Profession" after allowing normal business expenses (inclusive of the expenses incurred on transfer) as per the provisions of the Act.

The Finance Act, 2020 changed the method of dividend taxation. Henceforth, all dividends received on or after 1 April 2020 are taxable in the hands of the investor/shareholder. if shares are held for trading purposes then the dividend income shall be taxable under the head business or profession. Whereas, if shares are held as an investment then income arising in nature of dividend shall be taxable under the head other sources.
The Finance Act, 2020 also imposes a TDS on dividend distribution by companies and mutual funds on or after 1 April 2020. The normal rate of TDS is 10% on dividend income paid in excess of Rs 5,000 from a company or mutual fund.

Interest income arising on securities may be categorized as 'Business Income' or 'Income from Other Sources'. Any expenses incurred to earn such interest (such as interest expense) would be available as deduction as per the provisions of the Act.

STT paid on securities held as a business asset would be allowable as a deduction under section 36(1)(xv) of the Act, subject to the condition that such income from taxable securities transactions is included under the head 'profits and gains of business or profession'.

Business Income is chargeable to tax at the following rates:

Assessee	% of Income Tax
Individuals, Hindu undivided family ('HUF'), Association of Persons	Applicable Slab Rates
Partnership Firms [including Limited Liability Partnerships ('LLPs')]	30%+ applicable surcharge (if any)and cess
Indian Corporate	15% under section 115BAB, 22% under section 115BAA. 25% under section 115BA 25%\(In case Gross receipts or Total Turnover of Previous year 21-22 <Rs. 400 crores rate) otherwise 30% Th tax rate shall be increased byapplicable surcharge (if any) and cess.

Foreign Company	40%+ applicable surcharge (if any) and cess

Losses under the head Profits and Gains of Business or Profession

In the case of loss under the head 'Profits and Gains of Business or Profession' (other than speculative loss), it can be set off against the income from any other source under the same head or against income under any other head of income(except certain exceptions) in the same assessment year. If such loss cannot be set off against any other head in the same assessment year, then it will be carried forward and shall be set off against the profits and gains of the business (other than speculative loss), within the period of 8 subsequent assessment years.

In case the loss is in the nature of speculation loss, set-off would be available in the same assessment year only against speculation gain. In terms of Explanation to section 73, in case of a company, where any part of the business of a company, other than a company whose gross total income consists mainly of income which is chargeable under the heads "Income from house property", "Capital gains and "Income from other sources", or a company - the principal business of which is the business of trading in shares or banking or the granting of loans and advances, consists in the purchase and sale of shares of other companies, loss on sale of shares forming part of the business of the company (even if delivery based) is considered as speculation loss. Such loss can be carried forward for set-off against speculative gains for a period of four subsequent assessment years.
Transactions in derivatives traded on a recognized stock exchange in India shall not be treated as a speculative transaction.

Annexure 1: Employee Trading Policy

Summary

This Employee Personal Account Trading Policy ("Policy") sets forth standards to ensure that personal investment activities are conducted in compliance with applicable laws and regulations and that conflicts of interest related to personal investment activities are avoided or managed appropriately.

Compliance

All employees must adhere to the requirements for employee personal account trading: including disclosure of employee personal trading accounts; minimum holding periods; prohibitions on transactions that pose conflicts of interest and transactions when in possession of confidential or insider information.

Purpose

Accuracap's reputation for integrity and fair dealing is one of its most valuable assets. To protect that reputation, employees must engage in personal account trading in a manner that is in compliance with applicable laws and regulations and one in which conflicts of interest related to personal investment activities are avoided.

As the fund has hundreds of clients and each portfolio may receive initial and top-up amounts to invest and/or redemption requests through-out the year, hence it is inevitable that the stocks in client portfolios may get transacted through-out the year and there may not be a silent period available. Hence, the focus is to try to ensure that when employees do their transactions, they do not deliberately or unwillingly gain from short term price movement caused by any transactions executed on behalf of the clients.

Scope

This Policy applies to all of the employees of Accuracap Consultancy Services Pvt. Ltd and its group Companies (collectively, referred to as "employee" or "you" except where otherwise distinguished). It defines the standards for employees to follow in their personal trading accounts. You are required to be familiar with this Policy and any such additional requirements and to comply with them in all respects. In instances where SEBI or local law may be inconsistent with the provisions of this Policy, please consult with Compliance Officer

This Policy applies to all "Employee Personal Trading Accounts" (EPTA). An EPTA is defined as an account:
That has brokerage capability, i.e., the ability to execute transactions in securities and other Related products (including but not limited to equities, debt, commodities, derivatives and in which an employee has an interest or has the power, directly or indirectly, to make or influence investment decisions.

For purposes of this Policy, the definition of "Employee" includes, not only the employee, but also the employee's spouse, and minor children.

The following types of accounts are not covered by this Policy:

a) Checking, savings, money market and other deposit accounts without brokerage capability;
b) Mutual funds and unit investment trusts held or acquired directly through Asset Management Company or through a Brokerage Account at the fund distributor (and not through an account with brokerage capabilities);
c) Savings plans and collective investment plans such as pension, Provident Fund, ULIPS, Insurance Plans, retirement and other similar plans without brokerage capability.
d) Purchase of securities in Primary Markets (IPOs) directly from the issuer Company.

Disclosure/Maintenance of Accounts

You should maintain EPTA at a designated broker of any stock exchange in India and are subject to:

a) Periodic declarations of adherence to this policy to Compliance officer.
b) Account statements or contract notes, in case there has been any violation of any clause of this policy, are to be provided to appropriate management and/or Compliance officer.
c) This disclosure requirement applies to all Employee Personal Trading Accounts.

Minimum Holding Periods

Employees must observe a minimum holding period for any securities purchased in EPTA. Specifically, any security acquired must be held for at least four Calander weeks before it can be sold.

Pre-Clearance of Employee Transactions

Under certain exceptional circumstances, Employees can apply to the compliance officer for a waiver of the minimum holding period with evidence of the exceptional circumstances. A waiver granted by compliance office would be valid for 10 calendar days

Prohibitions on Transactions that Pose Conflicts of Interest

As an employee of Accuracap, you must pursue the best interests of the Company and its clients. As such, you must adhere to the following principles:

a) Employee transactions involving a conflict of interest between an employee and Accuracap, its PMS or its clients are prohibited.
b) You are prohibited from using your access to Accuracap's proprietary or client information in any way to advantage your personal investing.
c) Employee transactions that present potentially material reputational or regulatory risk to the Company are prohibited.

Prohibition on Transactions When In Possession of Confidential or Inside Information

You may not trade, or recommend that others trade, in a security or related derivative:

a) While in possession of material, non-public price sensitive information about the security or an issuer of a security.
b) If you are aware of a research report or other communication which has not yet been disseminated.

Where this Policy precludes you from conducting a transaction in EPTA, you are prohibited from procuring another person to make such a transaction on your behalf.

Security Trades Guidelines for Employees
